would become of the action that had already been taken in case a jury was not obtained by Monday, when the next term of the court commences.

Jedge Wylls said he had not fully examined the case, but it was his impression that if the jury were not obtained by Monday the case would have to be continued until next term of the court.

Mr. Merrick suggested that Judge Fisher had intimated the next term would not commence until ten oclook Monday morning.

Mr. Merrick suggested that Judge Fisher had intimated the next term would not commence until ten o'clock Monday morning.

Counsel suggested that, in order to save time, Judge Wyhe hear the excuses of javors; it would not occupy such time and would enable the Marshal to supply the places of those who were excused.

Judge Wyhe said he would hear only such excuses as were absolute in themselves as for personal sickness or stokness in the family, &c., but no others.

The name of the talesmen ordered yesterday were then called. The following offered no excuses, wiz:—
Jean McDermott, George T. McGue, James McGraun, George A. Behren, C. C. Sayder, U. H. Redenour, George J. Boufferle, Thos. B. Lloyd, &c., W. Burdette, Frederick Hates, Moses T. before Aiderman Coman, at the Tombs, two men named John Burns and Thomas Davis whom they had arrested John Burns and Thomas Davis whom they had arrested on suspicion of being concerned in breaking isto the bonded warehouse Nos. 393, 396 and 397 Greenwich street. Between the night of the 30th ultimo and the Monday morning fellowing, the thick partition wall between the stores 395 and 397 was dug through and the premises subbed of $7,000 worth of velveis, belonging to Messrs. Benkard & Hutton, No. 144 Buane street, and twenty-four pieces of black silk, worth $4,000, the property of Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co., said goods being on storage in the bended warshouse. After the arrest of Burns the detectives searched his premises, 429 Second avenue, and there found concealed twelve pieces of the velvet and trenty-two pieces of the silks. Before the officers left the house Davis made his appearance and was taken into custody on suspicion of having some guilty knowledge in relation to the burglary and larceny. Mr. Samuel A. Smith, connected with the pinudered warehouse, appeared before the magistrate for the purpose of entering a complaint against the prisoners, but owing to his imperfect knowledge as to how the burglary was committed he could not do so, and the case was accordingly portponed until 10-day, when the necessary wilesees will be produced in court and the complaint perfected. Mr. Charles S. Spencer appeared for the defendant lavis, and asked for his discharge on the ground that there was no proof to warrant his further determine. The magistrate, however, committed both the prisoners to await an examination. Detectives Farley and Irving have strong hopes of being able to recover the remainder of the solen property.

BRITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

The Champagne Case.
Before Judge Blaichford.
The United States vs. 3,109 Cases of Champag Wine-St. Marcome & Co., Claiments.—The hearing in this case was resumed yesterday, the inferest in it being unabled on the part of counsel and the parties inte-that he was engaged on the part of the government, through their agent, Mr. Gibbs, special agent to the Treasury Department, to go indo the champagne districts of France for the purpose of investigating into the manner in which the alleged frauds on the Custom House were conducted by foreign merchants; declined to state the sainty at which he was so engaged; had no contingent interest in the result of the suit; by direction of Mr. Gibbs went to Rheims and get introduced to Mr. Piper, one of the firms in France, an importation of whose wince had been seized affit was the subject of litigation in these saint; stated to Mr. Piper that he wanted to purchase wince for the East India and Australian market; Mr. Piper ratered Aim to his agent.

Everett G. Familied testified that he was a deputy of an importation of champagne wises by the Olympus; it could not be found, and the copy of the naval officer was substituted for the requirements of the Custom House instead of the collector's entry.

The prosecution for the present was closed on the part of the government.

Mr. Sidney Webster then proceeded to open the case on the part of the Court.

The case will be resumed Monday morning at half-past ten o'clock.

Jersey State prison, but had been pardoned. Counsel for the prisoner demanded the production of the document, and after considerable discussion, the prosecuting officer withdrew the witness.

Mr. Kinizing then opened the case for the defence, asserting that they would show that the unfortunate woman died from causes superinduced by her intemperate habits, which, in connection with the good character that the accused would show, rendered it improbable that he would perpetrate such an offence as was charged avainst him.

Drs. Good, Shine and Whitehead, who were present at the post mortem examination, were examined, and testified that there were slight bruises and abrasions all over the body of the deceased, who was a remarkably well formed woman, the result, as they thought, of falls. It appeared that the doctors, six of whom were present at the post mortem, "disagreed" upon a vital point—viz: as to whether the skull was fractured. Drs. Shine and Whitehead were of the opinion that it was not, while the others arrived at a different conclusion. The only wound of any consequence was upon the left side of the skull.

A number of hypothetical questions were put to the dectors relative to the duramater and the removing of the skull cap. Dr. Shine considered that the lacerated

A number of hypothetical questions were put to the dectors relative to the duramater and the removing of the skull cap. Dr. Shine considered that the lacerated wound on the head of the woman had been recently infected.

Michael J. Ryan, the employer of the defendant, John Callaghan, John Elickey and Patrick Kerrin were examined upon the question of character. They all testified that the accused was a man of mild and inoffensive disposition, and bore an excellent reputation in that part of the city where he was known.

The prosecution did not produce rebutting testimony, and, all the evidence being in on both sides, the summing up was postponed till Monday morning.

COURT OF OVER AND TERMINER, NINGS COUNTY. The Gold Street Tragedy—Singular Conduct of the Prisoner Skidmore.
Before Judge Barnard.

Judge Barnard having assigned Mesara. Thomas K.
Pearsall and Bernard Hughes as counsel to defend William T. Skidmore, indicted for the murder of William B. Carr, who was shot by the prisoner with an air-gun in Gold street some time since, these gentlemen yesterday afternoon visited him for the purpose of making up their case previous to the trial, which is set down for Monday next. Skidmore, who appeared to be more sullen than usual, said that he would not be ready by Monday. day, and expressed his determination that the trial shall not take place on that day. He refused to consult with his counsel, and asserted that if the case be tried on Mon-his counsel, and asserted that if the case be tried on Monday next he will not have any lawyer to defend him.

Seeing that the prisoner remained diagred, and that they would be unable to proceed while this state of affairs continued, Messra. Fearsell and Hughes appeared before Judge Barnard and asked to be relieved from any connection with the case.

Judge Barnard replied by directing counsel to inform Skidmore that be must be ready on Monday next, unless he could give a very good reason. The Court added that counsel must attend to the case, and that if he (the prisoner) refused to state his detence to them, that they must be on must altend to the case, and that if he (the prisoner. His Honor could not excuse counsel, and they must defend the prisoner.

Counsel thereupon returned to the office of District Attorney Morris, whither Skidmore had been conveyed from the Raymond street jail, and communicated to him what the Court had told them.

Skidmore maintained ellence, and remained sasted in a chair looking at those about him and then down to the floor. Mr. Pearsell said to him that if he had any witnesses to be subpunated his counsel would obtain subprema for them. Skidmore would only have to name the parties.

THE AMERICAN AND PERUVIAN NAVAL DIFFICULTY. Spicy Letter from Father Welles.

Washington, June 13, 1867. As much has been said relative to the difficulty with eru, growing out of the insult of Admiral Tucker to of wider application and has a more important basis than the adjustment of a more personal insult. It affects the the honor of the country.

Some time last year Peru saw fit to take into its service and give the rank of Rear Admiral to one John R. Tucker, an officer who left the United States navy and Joined the retels, fighting against the fing during the entire period of the recent war. As this officer was placed in command of their home forces, Rear Admiral Dahigren, who had been designated to command the South Pacific Squadron, was naturally solicitious to know whether or not he was to be humiliated by being required to extend the usual naval courteries to this unpardoned ex-rebel officer, and who had commanded the rebel forces at Charleston during the time Rear Admiral Dahigren was blockading that port, and he accordingly brought up the question of fuctor's states, so far as American officers were concerned. He was authorized, at discretion, to ware paragraph ninety-eix of the Navy Regulations, which provides that "the commanding officer of any fleet, squadron or vessel shall, on anchoring in any foreign part, pay the first visit to the commanding officer of any fleet, squadron to which the port belongs."

Thus matitues stood until the arrival of Rear Admiral Dahigren at Caline, when he suspended the regulation referred to so far as it affected officers of the Peruvian service who somalized excluded as ethicans of the United States from the amnesty of the Perusicola, Captain Worden, at Valparaiso, Pincker was not axinted, and he immediately made report of the omission to the Peruvian government, and issued a general order forbidding courtesies to United States officers. There was no interruption whatever of official or personal courtesy, save with Tucker. Both the Tuscarora and Pensacola said all the other honors, saluted the place with the Feruvian flag at the fore, and received the fitting response. Rear Admiral Dahigren endeavored upon all eccasions to assure the government of Peru that the point in dispute concerned Tucker alone, and would be kept as distinct as possible from the attentions due to their own flag.

THE ROOM OF WILKES BOOTH. The Late Murder and Suicide.

There is a singular incident attached to the late terri-Mrs. Alfred King and the suicide of her alleged husband, at No. 30 East Nineteenth street, which escaped the lynx eyes of your reporter. The double crime, and by the pistol, the assessin's weapon, was committed in the late residence and house of Edwin Booth, and in the very room, as I am well informed, in which the historic assessin, Wilkes Booth, alept for the last time beneath that roof prior to the quarrel and separation of the two brothers. May not the above fact ifor Alfred King must have known it have worked upon his maddened brain and suggested the crimes? and by the pistol, to be discharged at the head as certain death, as in the case of President Abraham Lincoin?

Association of ideas brings forth the same fruit of virtues or of crime, and suicides have often occurred by contemplating the place of suicides, the mind being predisposed to self-destruction. The Monument of London, called the suicide's monument, had to be encased with iron bars, from the top of the column to the plinth supporting the ura, to prevent continual suicides. There seems to be an avenging and melanoholy memorial around the name of Booth, which, for the sake of the living and innocent brothers, must call forth human pity and the deepest sympathy.
